Assembly:

The three legs have three segments, to allow extension up to 60 ½". Make sure when packaging the tripod that all legs are locked together using the included grips, as to prevent shuffling and possible damage.

To lock or unlock the legs after adjusting to the desired height, simply twist the locking knobs completely into the lock position. Make sure each lock is secured completely, as to prevent the segments from shifting under the weight of the camera. The spreaders are adjustable, for better support.
